

ADVANCING BLACK ARTS IN PITTSBURGH

he City of Pittsburgh is known for its rich contributions to the canon of Black cultural creativity. Cultural experiences and creative innovations have always reflected the expressions and imaginations of people from the African diaspora. The Advancing Black Arts in Pittsburgh program is where access and opportunity connect with Pittsburgh artists who are thriving in their creative process as a means and a way of life.

Advancing Black Arts in Pittsburgh is a joint grant-making program created and managed through a partnership between The Pittsburgh Foundation and The Heinz Endowments. The program is committed to helping create a vibrant cultural life in Pittsburgh and the region. Both foundations have made consistent investments in the initiative since 1988. In recent years, both foundations have codified their longstanding efforts toward equity into aspirational visions that seek to support the development of a more inclusively imagined future. The Pittsburgh Foundation's 100 Percent Pittsburgh organizing principle imagines a region where courage, voice and racial equity are the norm as our region moves authentically toward the mutual goal of economic sustainability for all. The Heinz Endowments' Just Pittsburgh is an aspirational vision meant to inspire thought and action toward creating a region that is inclusive and equitable.

PROGRAM GOALS

Creating an equitable arts ecology within the region is a core value of Advancing Black Arts in Pittsburgh and its funders. The program goals are to:

- Help build the careers and support the lives of individual artists.
- Increase the sustainability of cultural organizations that focus on Black arts.
- Build community awareness of the Black arts sector.
- Support efforts toward greater collaboration and the elimination of racial disparities within the larger arts sector.
- Prioritize the documentation and discussion of Black artists' work and well-being as part of the region's cultural health.
- Support work that directly addresses and calls for the eradication of systemic and structural racism that allows for disparities to exist.

PROGRAM VALUES

- Equity. Racial equity is central to Advancing Black Arts in Pittsburgh. All competitive applications will elevate race and ethnicity through the art of African Americans, Africa and the larger African diaspora. The program also values equity in the areas of gender, age, economic diversity, sexual orientation, gender identity, religion, physical ability and intersectionality. Creating a just and equitable arts ecology for 100 percent of Pittsburgh's residents is complex, and we welcome applications that reflect the many ways in which identity is expressed.
- Capacity. The application process is not meant to attract and/or reward the perfect applicant, but rather applicants who are ready and willing to make changes that will result in their desired outcomes and improve the overall health and vitality of the greater cultural ecosystem.
- Building Generational Wealth. As is evidenced by the practice of philanthropy, the program will encourage the practice of building wealth for artists and art organizations for the purpose of effectuating change for social good in perpetuity.

- Ecosystem. In order to support cultural shifts and sustained system change, design thinking will be used to develop human-centered programs and practices that center empathy, interdependence and authentic collaborations for the purpose of advancing artists, organizations and culture bearers. In addition to supporting the eradication of historic underfunding to Black artists and organizations, a primary focus is the successful navigation of a broad array of both local and national resources.
- Interdependence. The program is predicated upon an interconnected arts ecosystem that promotes economies of scale to amplify impacts within and beyond Pittsburgh's creative community.
- Building pathways. The program embraces grantmaking as a tool for lasting and long-term change. We believe that the cultural shifts needed must be executed in a manner that is transformational, and not solely transactional, in order to deeply engage creatives over time and build pathways for creative advancement.
- Documentation. Reflection, learning and evaluation are essential to charting an appropriate and effective pathway forward and are necessary for overcoming historic obstacles to advancement.

In addition to these goals and values, the program employs the following imperatives to further the mission of Advancing Black Arts in Pittsburgh:

- Financial capital.
- Collective accountability.
- Evaluation and learning.
- Tools and resources.
- Thought leadership.
- Broader support for the arts ecosystem.

Advancing the Field Support

Letter of intent is due March 20, 2020, by 11:59 p.m.

In addition to creating and presenting artwork, special efforts are needed to improve the overall arts ecosystem for Black cultural workers in the region. As a result, funds are available to support projects aimed at shared challenges, barriers or opportunities. Nonprofit organizations, researchers and arts advocates may apply for grants of up to $25,000 for collaborative projects, research, or marketing/advocacy efforts that increase the health and visibility of the Black arts sector beyond a single artistic engagement. Broad-scale, sector-wide advocacy aimed at the Pittsburgh community as a whole is encouraged. All proposals must provide evidence that the project is rooted in a collective effort (such as a memo of understanding signed by partners, establishment of a project advisory committee, or a collaborative project structure).

Historic challenges that have plagued Pittsburgh's Black arts community and may ignite innovative project proposals include:

- Cultural criticism.
- Audience engagement and marketing.
- Board development.
- Access to affordable cultural space for presentations and productions.
- Professional development and retention of cultural workers.
- Social media strategies and implementation.
- Mentorship.
- Succession planning.

CULTURALLY RELEVANT: Cultural relevance celebrates the unique cultural strengths of people of the African diaspora. The lens of cultural relevance gives first-person voice to the people of the African diaspora, so that the artists may share and celebrate their lived experiences and build on the artistic traditions of the diaspora. Cultural relevance is rooted in historical context, and considers contemporary issues, such as social climate and intersectionality in the artistic work and in the creative approach. Host organizations applying to this program will reflect the African diaspora in their overall approach to their everyday work. Competitive projects will be designed by artists who bring their culture and experience to the development and execution of the plan. This will result in work that matters to a broad array of Pittsburgh residents and deepens understanding of the current social context in which the work is created.

INDIVIDUAL ARTIST: A professional artist is defined as an individual who has devoted significant time and training to building a career creating or interpreting works of art. Our definition includes playwrights and choreographers, as well as those who bring works of art to life for audiences, such as stage directors, actors, dancers or designers. Interpreters of art, including, but not limited to journalists, art critics and curators, may also apply. Professional artists may be emerging, mid-career or established. In assessing an artist's qualifications, we will take the following into consideration as appropriate to the art form and stage of career: quality of creative work; evidence of formal or informal training; history of exhibitions, performances, screenings, or other public sharing of work; and critical reviews or letters of recommendation from professionals in the field.

PITTSBURGH REGION: The Pittsburgh region is defined as the following counties: Allegheny, Armstrong, Beaver, Butler, Fayette, Greene, Indiana, Lawrence, Mercer, Somerset, Venango, Washington and Westmoreland.

If you reside outside of these 13 counties and have a project that is competitive though not eligible, we would still like to hear from you. Please contact Celeste Smith at smithc@pghfdn.org. There may be opportunities to form authentic partnerships with artists and organizations within the qualifying Pittsburgh region.

RESIDENCY: A residency is defined as an immersive period during which an artist or arts administrator has access to the resources of a host arts organization for the expressed purpose of developing or supporting artistic work. The individual does not need to reside continuously in the region, but both the individual and organization must engage each other in an active exchange that adds value to both the artistic work and the host organization. Residencies should last a minimum of three months to a maximum of 18 months.
